

AT THE TRIBUNE'S SAIGON GHQ: TIME OUT FOR A CAMERA SMILE

"This picture was taken just outside Bev's house--which is also the Herald Tribune office in Saigon--following a luncheon she had given for Si Freidin who was here for 10 days." So wrote ex-Tribune photographer Jill Kremetz to our pix man Ira Rosenberg.

Jill, busy at war-photographing, mostly outside Saigon, is back there again after 3 weeks' vacation in Athens. She's the gal at left, above. Next to her: Pham Xuan An, special Tribune correspondent...freelancer Frankie Fitzgerald who has contributed to NEW YORK Magazine...Executive Editor, Foreign News, Si Freidin...and hostess Beverly Deep special correspondent for the Tribune. White House correspondent Douglas Kiker didn't quite make the party. He was with Vice President Humphrey's Far Eastern tour at the time.

Wrote our man Si, who has since returned to his London base (see Saturday's editorial page): "Asians, in political coats of many colors, don't want us to get out of Viet Nam. Their stark reasons for saying so are worth of attention in any Congressional debate". and worth checking, if you missed last Saturday's ed page.

LUNCHEON AT SARDI'S--CLASSIFIED'S GUEST

Douglas MacIntosh was special guest of the Classified Department at a March 18 luncheon at Sardi's, given in honor of his coming marriage. The ceremony took place last Saturday afternoon in the Church of St. Joseph's of the Palisades, West New York, New Jersey. The bride is the former Barbara Niosi, with the personnel department of the National Broadcasting Company. Classified's wedding presents included a savings bond and a gift certificate.

Congratulators, 1st row: Cecelia Higgins, Miriam Sanders, Maria McLean, Vivian Frey, (Doug), Lester Beder, Kathleen Cavanagh and Frieda Keegan.

Rear: Grace Tintle, Violet Thelen, Mary Dougrey, Nancy Brown (partly hidden) and Mildred Jordan.

NEW TO BOOK WEEK

At left is Theodore Solotaroff, newly appointed Editor of BOOK WEEK (which is also carried by the Chicago Sun-Times and the Washington Post). The new editor succeeds Richard Kluger, who is going to Simon & Schuster as an editor.

Ted Solotaroff, 37, comes from Commentary where he was an Associate Editor since 1960 and was in charge of the magazine's book reviews. He has also contributed reviews to BOOK WEEK as well as to the Times of London's literary supplement, The Chicago Review, The New Republic and Partisan Review.

A native of Elizabeth, New Jersey, he received his B.A. in 1952 at the University of Michigan where he won honors in English, made Phi Beta Kappa and received the Avery Hopwood Awards in fiction and criticism. He took his master's degree at the University of Chicago in '56 and, while doing further graduate work, taught at the University's college and at the University of Indiana.

Ted is married to Shirley Fingerhood, a New York attorney active in the civil rights field, and has three children: Paul, 10; Ivan, 9; and Jason, 3 months.

A 9-member board of directors was named March 29 for the World Journal Tribune Inc. Board members named by Whitney Communications are: John Hay Whitney, Walter N. Thayer, and Robert T. MacDonald. Mr. Whitney will be a member of the board's editorial supervisory committee. Mr. Thayer will serve on the board's executive committee which will have general supervision over business affairs.

HOW TO BE A SPACEMAN

HT TV and Radio Editor Dick Doan (below) looking duly apprehensive, receives last-minute instructions from American Broadcasting Company's Science Editor Jules Bergman on use of device--a space-walker--which the Air Force uses to teach astronauts how to propel themselves in weightless-space. The device floats on a cushion of air. Though the astronauts didn't quite make it all the way in Gemini 8, Dick can now give you the low-down on life among the higher-ups.

Editor-in-Chief: Andrea di Bonaventura

THE LATEST TRIB... LONG MAY IT WA

You are looking at the masthead of the new Tribune...an illustrated, joke-filled and philosophical (answers to "What Is Happiness" 11-page opus. Its "810" derives from the fact that it's published "now and then (at least once)" by the Fourth Grade, Room 810, Dalton School." If the editor-in-chief's name isn't quite familiar to you, please be advised that Miss Andrea di Bonaventura, all of 10 years comes by it honestly...being one of Editor-in-Chief Whitney's 7 grandchildren (including 5 di Bonaventuras and 2 young Haddads).

Congratulations to Dick Lavino (7th Floor Mail Room) and his wife Rose on the birth of their first, Denise Marie, 7 lbs. 10 oz., on February 15. Incidentally, when baby Denise is dressed up, she wears her lovely gold locket and chain--gift of Trib friends who also started her off on a financial career with a $50 savings bond.

A few Fridays ago Mimi McCabe of the Science Department was guest of honor at a farewell luncheon given by Trib friends at Artist & Writers. Mimi left Editorial to join the weekly, Medical World News, as a copy editor.

Camille Duhe, former Trib writer on home decoration, has joined Vogue as editor of the magazine's new feature "Men in Vogue"...

Caroline Windisch-Graetz of Women's Features has gone to Harper's Bazaar as editor of the Fashion Independents department.

You've been seeing Andrew Hamilton's byline--and here (below) you see him on camera. He joined the Washington Bureau in February, coming from Washington's Congressional Quarterly, where he was Committee Editor and Senior Writer, specializing in Congressional affairs and defense matters. Before working on the Quarterly, correspondent Hamilton taught English at Brevard Junior College, in North Carolina. He graduated Magna Cum Laude from Harvard in '59 and received a master's in English Literature from Harvard in '61. He will be covering the Pentagon and related stories.

SUGAR, SPICE, COFFEE...AND GAVEL

Judge Isabel McGovern, perchance? Not a chance. The above-pictured gavel-in-hand performance of our Isabel, of Women's Features, came as a completely unrehearsed surprise to her. When she went to cover the Open-House put on by the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange for food editors of radio, TV, newspapers and magazines, the names of all editors were put into a bowl, Isabel's was drawn and to her went the special honor of open-sesame-ing the Open House.

The Grand Opening took place at the Exchange, 79 Pine Street, on February 25.

Rx: CHEERS FOR OUR FAVORITE R. N.

Grateful patients feted Herald Tribune nurse Miss Edna Meckes at luncheon today (Friday, April 10) at the Artist & Writers' Round Table. The theme was "Thank you, Miss Meckes for curing our headaches over the years, so here's 1,000 aspirins (in a Steuben glass bowl) to refill the medicine chest."
