... I AM THE SON OF GOD ...

5.7.13.

Awake at 3:00 a.m.

A lot going through my mind - everything from Barbara Bista to the Dallas Love Project to the shift in the air when...

I no longer enjoy writing observations about my emotional + psychic shifts. I don't much enjoy chronicling my observations about this or that. If I were to ever write again that would change, but I don't read much... so —

The most meaningful moments that I experienced recently are the ones in which I give myself time to stand in awe, to openly appreciate + give attention to the wonder and beauty that is everywhere. The garden, the sky, leaves, water. I want to know more. The simple activity of putting together a dresser drawer (IKEA piece) was satisfying. Picking out beautiful plants at the nursery.

Why do I burden myself with big projects, with responsibilities?

It probably isn't that complicated... something to do, a challenge, some kind of proving myself, trying to do some good.

I think back, and this urgency was sprung from the world that George Bush + his cronies unleashed.

And now I'm getting bored with this writing.

"Everything is changing."
from "Let Nothing Dipset You."

It feels like the ground beneath my feet is shifting.
My sister soul is preparing to slip away. Will her spirit really be boundless and stay near me?

The family I love is far away in Nebraska, older now - like me. They are probably surprised to see me with white hair, changed, the same way, I'm shocked to see them - stopped, fighting disease.

~~There's~~ There's a laundry list of change: my body, the organization, the world, the children we see.
And yet...

TRUC NOT IT stays the same. The compass is pointing in the direction I want to go — to love, to kindness, to wonder - however what.

Left handed.

Everything is changing.

Yes, it sure is.

tapole to fish to binmen.

Or worm to butterfly. Everything changes.

Fighting it is pointless.
Best is to <sup>it</sup> and in a state of wonder,

observe carefully,
learn, redirect change
when possible,

but in the end
just wonder at the

FRIDAY, JUNE 28, 2013.

Tired, a little stuck & at how frustrated I felt last night with Vicki Milligan, and hurt/ambivalent about Brian's promise not stopping in to help with the Keller 150 proposal. It is what it is.

GROWTH - or go really small?
what direction do you want us to go?

Thought just went through my mind - from one of Rick Warner's columns - '60
"where the happy people go."

That would not be in the world of non-profits.

Saturday, June 29, 2013 with a week ending with gas pump spewing gasoline all over me.

Email from Vicki Milligan
Brian Swol + Then DeWiers.

And in my sleep last night - finally ... a good night's sleep.

Flying ... or floating.

Long dream. Of being at a hotel. Near a pool. And on the streets of N.Y.

And I raised above
the ground, eyes closed, and floating. Or whirling slowly

like a yogi on magic

Barbara is still with us.
I spoke with Tania last night and the stroke's took Barbara's condition to another level. Not good.
I've been through almost two weeks of grieving for Barbara - tears, sad loss,

I understand how people die of grief. The intense emotions trigger a bodily quaking in heightened breath out, anxiety.

The mantram kicks in and helps, but it is intense and frightening, even.

I pray that she doesn't suffer much longer.

I love you Barbara.

JULY 6, 2013

Barbara Boston-Phillips was laid to rest at 8:30 a.m. Seattle time, on July 5, 2013. There was a service in her Russian Orthodox Church & then burial at a 'Green Cemetery' outside of Seattle.

Her death came after a 10 year battle with cancer - with this last year bringing one obstacle after another.

The last two weeks were particularly rough, according to Tania and Alan. Barbara entered hospice care, went to the hospital due to pain, came home, had 2 strokes, became unable to speak, went into a coma and she was gone. She died @

12:34 Seattle time on July 4th, Tania texted me shortly after. My catharsis was to scan photos she gave me + send them out.

The <sup>my</sup> grief was flat out, full throttle, for about a week when we were told not to call.
Her sweet humor still showed through. I wonder what she would be saying to us from the other side.

John said something about his world being darker with her gone - I balked - not wanting to be self indulgent - but it is true for me too.

 there is a part of me that is letting this all go I am loosening my grip. Am I doing the right thing, or do I keep making and working, to do whatever I can, to make things work.
 I am no more of us, I am

Beauty is our strategy

Beauty is not always what it seems

can be a tool of survival
+ seduction
